

For Adults

We offer an astounding breadth of interesting and entertaining programs and events for adults, including visits from popular authors, book clubs, talks about great new reads and authors, genealogy classes, current events discussions, business learning and networking, and more.

Volunteer Opportunities

Involvement is easy at Douglas County Libraries, whether you prefer working with the public or behind the scenes. Opportunities range from administrative activities to shelving returned materials; helping with children's programs to working with seniors; or representing the library at community functions or special library events. Benefits include gaining skills and community connections, fulfilling community service requirements, making new friends, and getting experience that may help with a job search or resume.

Research Resources

Douglas County Libraries cardholders enjoy access to popular research tools, such as Consumer Reports, AncestryPlus and MyHeritage, Auto Repair Reference Center, Mango Languages, Gale Legal Forms, Morningstar Investments, and more. Free online research resources also include digital versions of respected newspapers, magazines, books, encyclopedias, and other reliable reference works.

Literacy Services

Through our classes and one-on-one tutoring services, we help adults prepare for high school equivalency exams, learn English as a second language through practice groups, prepare for U.S. citizenship testing, and improve their skills in computer literacy, reading, writing and math. In September 2017, we'll also offer a Career Online High School, which is an online high school diploma and career certification program for Douglas County residents.

Ask Us

Our professional librarians are your personal avenue to elusive information, exciting book suggestions, and helpful library resources. They can also help you learn to use your e-reader, mobile device or tablet; access the internet; book a meeting room; and more.

BizInfo Business Resources

Our business librarians help established small businesses with personalized market research and lists, business operation assistance, and industry trend information. For entrepreneurs, we provide help with business planning, registration and startup information.
